

AS MITT HEADS TO SHELDON ADELSON'S COUNTRY, CIA EXPOSES ISRAEL'S TREACHERY

After visiting his bankster donors in London, Mitt is on his way to visit megadonor Sheldon Adelson's other country, Israel. Perhaps in a bid to butter up Adelson, Mitt's staffers put up an Israeli flag on the plane before they remembered he's running to be President of the United States.

And just as Mitt prepares to suck up to Israel, leak witch hunt targets Matt Apuzzo and Adam Goldman have a piece cataloging how much Israel spies on us. They describe:

- Someone tampering with the CIA station chief's secure phone on at least two occasions
- Someone rearranging the food in a CIA officer's fridge
- Leaking details from a key Syrian chem and bioweapons scientist working for the US, which led to his disappearance and presumed death

It also reveals that after it gave up its nuke program, the CIA considered Libya a better counter-terrorism partner than Israel.

During the Bush administration, the CIA ranked some of the world's intelligence agencies in order of their willingness to help in the U.S.-led fight against terrorism. One former U.S. intelligence official who saw the completed list said

Israel, which hadn't been directly targeted in attacks by al-Qaida, fell below Libya, which recently had agreed to abandon its nuclear weapons program.

Now, it's not just Mitt who sucks up to the Israelis. Goldman and Apuzzo note the US has given Israel $60 billion since we nabbed Jonathan Pollard and Obama just released an additional $70 million of military aid.

But as Mitt tries to appear less obtuse in Israel than he did in UK, remember that the Israelis are probably stealing our secrets even as he unfurls their flag.
