

SOME THOUGHTS

As a Michigan voter, the most important thing that happened today was the recognition—on the part of Mark Brewer and Carl Levin—that our January primary was not a real vote. That meant more to me as anything else that happened today—it was more important to me than the numbers that came out of the process.

RBC, THE EARLY EVENING EDITION

We will deal with Florida first, then Michigan. Limited debate.

Alice Huffman is speaking in support of her proposal to seat all of Florida. She got so much mail in support of seating Florida.

David McDonald opposing this motion, because it asks to go back to a time before it was complicated by campaign interests.

WHEN YOU BREAK FOR LUNCH AT 3PM...

Waiting on the RBC members.

THE MI CHALLENGE

The MI delegation is doing a much better job presenting its case than I thought it would.

MORE FROM THE RBC MEETING

Bill Nelson brought some spice to the proceedings.

HOWARD, THIS IS NOT ABOUT YOU, THIS IS ABOUT YOUR COUNTRY

My take on Howard Dean's opening speech.

THE RULES AND BYLAWS COMMITTEE MEETING, A PRIMER

A primer on what to expect from the RBC meeting today—and as we go forward.

DID MI'S APRIL 19

DISTRICT CONVENTIONS JUST BECOME A CLUSTERF^#K TOO?

Things go bad to worse in the world of MI's Clusterfuck. It now looks like the only way to assign MI's uncommitted delegates to Obama is to re-do the Conventions. You know—the ones where a bunch of activists beat out candidates hand-selected by the party to be delegates to the Convention.

A RETURN TO ZAPRUDER IN THE LIVE-STREAM WORLD

A member of the White House press corps told Jay Rosen last year that the press corps basically has to travel closely with the President to ensure that they're there if something serious happens. But the back story of how the NYT learned of Hillary's badly worded comment about RFK's assassination on Friday certainly challenges that idea.

OH, THAT'S WHY MCCAIN CAN'T KEEP SHIITE AND SUNNI STRAIGHT

John McCain's medial records report that he's dizzy.
