

IT'S CALLED JUSTICE

Not only did Michael Mukasey, in his most reasonable act as AG, refuse to act on Bush's request that he help Ohio Republicans prevent 200,000 voters from voting.

But now, the military judge in charge of Hamdan's Show Trial has refused the Bush Administration's request that the jury re-sentence Hamdan so he won't be released on Bush's watch.

A military judge rejected a Bush administration move to that could have kept Osama bin Laden's former driver locked up for an additional five years.

[snip]

In a two-paragraph order, [Judge Keith Allred] said he had read the filings and legal citations, as well as reviewing the sentencing hearing transcript.

"The prosecution motion to reconsider, reassemble, reinstruct and re-announce a sentence is denied," he wrote.

I guess Poppy and Dick never told you this whole all-powerful bullshit would end as soon as you became a lame duck, huh, Bush?