

LAMBERT DOGS THE PRESS

I beat the NYT to actual close reading over the weekend and it made a stink.

But Lambert documents his superior canine instincts from five years ago.

Je repete. 2004-05-09, Corrente:

Maybe there is a smoking gun. ...
Somebody's got to authorize the dogs, the kennels, the handlers, and the purpose. ... Who let the dogs out?

2009-05-20, Senator Carl Levin via
Digby:

The interrogation techniques
authorized by Secretary Rumsfeld
in December 2002 for use at GTMO
– including ... military working dogs – were used by military intelligence personnel
responsible for interrogations.
... On September 14, 2003,
Lieutenant General Sanchez
issued an interrogation policy
for CJTF-7 that authorized interrogators to use stress
positions, environmental
manipulation, sleep management,
and military working dogs ...

This was a very easy post to write:
Evidence, and a soupçon of reasoning. So why was an unpaid, foul-mouthed blogger
the one to write it, instead of a reporter in our famously free press?
Bueller?... Bueller?... Bueller?

From one foul mouth blogger to another ... good fucking question.
