

THE US BELIEVES IT'S OKAY TO THREATEN TEENAGERS WITH RAPE

Carol Rosenberg tweets:

Omar Khadr's military judge just ruled that ALL of his confessions from Afghanistan to #Guantanamo will go to trial. None suppressed.

The Toronto-born captive's defense had wanted his interrogations excluded on grounds they were not voluntary. Col. Patrick Parrish disagreed

#Khadr's war court judge also agreed to use at trial a homemade video of the 15-year-old allegedly building, planting mines in Afghanistan

So in spite of the fact that Joshua Claus threatened Omar Khadr with rape and potentially death, our military "justice" system does not believe that taints Khadr's confession.

So nice to see our Kangaroo Court is living up to billing. It shames the US terribly in the process.

Update: it sounds like Khadr's lawyer takes the same lesson from this I do:

Omar #Khadr's Canadian lawyer, Edney, calls Army judge "a disgrace" for admitting the Canadian's admissions as a 15-year-old at trial.
