

AMERICA'S POWER COUPLE: SAMANTHA POWER FIGHTS ATROCITIES, CASS SUNSTEIN DEFENDS CHILD LABOR

These two things happened in the same week.

On Monday, Obama rolled out his Atrocities Prevention Board. While in reality, this appears an excuse to sanction Israel's enemies, in theory at least, it's an initiative to find alternative tools to prevent the massacres of women and ... children.

Obama put Samantha Power in charge of this effort.

On Thursday, Obama's Labor Department withdrew rules designed to prevent kids under the age of 16 from being paid to perform dangerous farm jobs.

Obama's equivocations regarding imposing limits on businesses are usually attributed to Samantha Power's husband, Cass Sunstein.

It must take a lot of effort for this power couple, working so hard to help and hurt kids all in one week.
