

THREE THINGS: LAWYER DUMPS KUSHNER, HOT AT FOX, DIMON'S DOUCHERY

Can't keep up with the amount of crap in the news today. It's a Friday smack in the middle of summer, for god's sake; can't the news-making weasels give the treadmill a rest? Go to the beach already. Chris Christie can give you directions. Sheesh.

Jamie Gorelick put on her boots made for walking. She's "wrapping up," they say. Yeah, like rotting fish in news paper, wrapping up. The ~100 names added to Kushner's SF-86 must have been the last straw – or perhaps the baloney fib about a staffer hitting Enter too soon on a correction to the SF-86 (which is supposed to be a paper form?).

With Team Trump, watch the women. When they leave it's a sign, just like with The Donald's ex-wives Fox News' too-few journalists are struggling with the crap Team Trump is shoveling. Check out Shepard Smith's southern accent unleashed while talking with Chris Wallace about all the lies from the White House. Wallace is nearly without words at one point.

JPMorgan's CEO Jamie Dimon went off on a rant about the U.S. today. Depending on which outlet you read you'll find completely different takes on what he said. Sadly, it's more of the same crap which both caused the 2008 crash and put us in this lie-filled quagmire today (too much litigation, complex non-competitive taxes, blah-blah-blah). The jerk-offs on Wall Street don't realize that regulations they bitch about are what makes the U.S. a safe place to live and do business. China has envied our clean skies and our banking system assures businesses will see their money all their money at the end of the day.

If anything is fucked up with the U.S. it's that its workers don't make a living wage and are sandwiched between outrageous college tuition payments and rising rents – and guys like Dimon (who should have been perp walked) think coastal real estate is pricey?

Okay, a fourth thing: Corey Lewandowski tried to give Donald Trump cover for his whereabouts on June 9th last year. WHY? We know now there were EIGHT people in the meeting room though it's not clear who the last person was. Paul Manafort? Or Donald Trump?

Treat this like an open thread – and treat each other gently, you've only just started the weekend!
