

WHY WAS ELI LAKE GETTING DOCUMENTS DEMOCRATS ON OVERSIGHT COMMITTEE NOT GETTING?

I'll be livetweeting the Oversight Hearing on the Benghazi attack.

Elijah Cummings, in his opening statement, laid into Darrell Issa for his partisan treatment of this investigation. He revealed, among other things, that the Committee didn't share documents with Democrats. (Cummings and Issa had a bit of a squabble over whether this violated House rules or not, but Issa did not rebut Cummings' claim they had not shared the documents.)

That's curious, because somehow Eli Lake was getting those documents. Why do you suppose that is?

In his own opening statement, Romney surrogate Jason Chaffetz complained he wasn't invited to a State Department press briefing last night.
