

ADVENT WEEK 3: ORDINARY RICHES CAN BE STOLLEN

We're in the deep end of Advent season. What fruited cakes have you run across this past week? Have you baked? This is an open thread.

ADVENT WEEK 2: PREPARE YE THE WAY FOR THE STOLLEN AHEAD

Here it is, my first candidate for the stollen election. What bread/cake containing fruit did you make/buy/consume this week? This is an open thread.

THREE THINGS: BRILLIANT OPPORTUNITIES DISGUISED

Some news outlet will point out how the failings of the state GOP parties in Florida, Michigan, and Texas are somehow bad news for Joe Biden, and not the brilliant opportunities they represent for Democrats. But not this site.

ADVENT WEEK 1: GOT YER STOLLEN ELECTION RIGHT HERE, BUB

A stollen election. Get it? This is an open thread.

SANDRA DAY

Sandra Day O'Connor has passed away. Don't let anyone spoof you, she was one of the nicest, brightest and best people you could ever hope to meet. Gracious is not enough of a word to describe her. She went from the smartest girl in the room at Stanford Law to not being able to get a job because they were all helmed by men.

From the NYT and Greenhouse:

“During a crucial period in American law – when abortion, affirmative action, sex discrimination and voting rights were on the docket – she was the most powerful woman in the country.

...

Very little could happen without Justice O'Connor's support when it came to the polarizing issues on the court's docket, and the law regarding affirmative action, abortion, voting rights, religion, federalism, sex discrimination and other hot-button subjects was basically what Sandra Day O'Connor thought it should be.

That the middle ground she looked for tended to be the public's preferred place as well was no coincidence, given the close attention Justice O'Connor paid to current events and the public mood. "Rare indeed is the legal victory – in court or legislature – that is not a careful byproduct of an emerging social consensus," she wrote in "The Majesty of the Law: Reflections of a Supreme Court Justice," a collection of her essays published in 2003.

...

The idea seemed so novel that Ronald Reagan's promise during his 1980 presidential campaign made front-page news. Only two years before that, a Broadway comedy, "First Monday in October," featured a conservative female Supreme Court justice, and the very idea was played for laughs. When life imitated art on July 7, 1981, Paramount moved up the release date of the movie version of the play by five months, releasing it in August. Ultimately, of course, it was Sandra O'Connor who had the last laugh.

Sandra Day O'Connor was one of the good people in life, as was her too early departed husband John. Print and visual media will tell you the obvious, good and bad. I'll tell you something different.

Long ago, one of her sons was kind of a friend. He lived in their house while she was mostly away in Washington. There was a raging party at said house, and there was a long line of girls at the main bathrooms. So I, ahem, went outside by the side of the house. As one does.

After finishing business, I walked out toward the front. Where there was suddenly some kind of black car/limo. It was Sandra Day. She came home early. During the party!

I helped her with her luggage and then asked a freaking sitting member of SCOTUS, if there was anything else I could do?

The response was: 'Can you get me a beer'? So I could and did. Discussion with Sandra Day was incredible for the rest of the night.

Hard to describe how wonderful she was. Saw her occasionally at the local grocery store. Always a beautiful human. So, say what you will, she was better than that, she was.

BREATHING ROOM: THANKSGIVING DAY EMERGENCY COOKING AID

In case of last minute Turkey Day kitchen emergencies, an open thread.

BREATHING ROOM: WHAT'S ON YOUR HOLIDAY MENU?

This is an open thread – talk about your Thanksgiving holiday preparations here.

IN MEMORIAM: ROSALYNN CARTER

Eleanor Rosalynn Carter, wife of former president Jimmy Carter, passed away today at age 96.

BREATHING ROOM: WHAT ARE YOU STREAMING NOW?

It's the perfect weekend for binge watching streaming series or movies. What have you been watching that you'd recommend? What have you been watching that you think we should avoid? This is an open thread.

THREE THINGS: THIS WEEK'S MASSIVE DICKHEAD AWARD GOES TO...

This last week was bad. We were swamped with dickheads, more so than usual, and some of them bigger dickheads than the usual fare. Who won the award for Massive Dickhead?