

COMINGS AND GOINGS ON THE PROUD BOY LEADERS PROSECUTION

Among some minor changes in the Proud Boy Leader conspiracy last week, a prosecutor overseeing a number of Florida-based militia prosecutions got added to the Leader conspiracy team.

SCENE-SETTER FOR THE SUSSMANN TRIAL, PART TWO: THE WITNESSES

The existing witness list in the Durham case suggests he may want to avoid talking about the Alfa Bank anomaly at the heart of this case entirely.

WILL KLEPTOCAPTURE CATCH JOHN DURHAM, ALONG WITH THE RUSSIAN SPIES AND OLIGARCHS?

There's increasing evidence that DOJ's efforts to crack down on Russian attempts to harm democracy here and abroad may hinder if not make John Durham's prosecution of Igor Danchenko unsustainable.

SCENE-SETTER FOR THE SUSSMANN TRIAL, PART ONE: THE ELEMENTS OF THE OFFENSE

To get a conviction of Michael Sussmann in the trial started next week, John Durham has to prove that Sussmann said what Durham claims Sussmann did to James Baker on September 19, 2016, that what Sussmann said was a lie, and that the alleged lie was material to the functioning of the FBI. That'll be harder than you might think.

THIRTY MONTHS AFTER DISPUTING MICHAEL HOROWITZ, DURHAM'S TEAM SUGGESTS THEY'VE NEVER LOOKED AT THE EVIDENCE

John Durham seems to have admitted that when he claimed to know better than Michael Horowitz about whether the Russian investigation was properly predicated, he hadn't actually reviewed the evidence.

WALL STREET JOURNAL: BIGGER DUPES OF JOHN DURHAM OR ALEXSEJ GUBAREV?

Six months after the Igor Danchenko indictment, John Durham is still getting journalists to misreport what the indictment says.

FUN WITH BATES STAMPS, PART ONE: JOHN DURHAM CONFUSES HIS TWO DEFENDANTS TO RILE UP THE FROTHERS

In his exhibit purporting to get preapproval to use Fusion GPS emails at trial, John Durham provided a bunch of emails that were useless for that purpose but really useful for riling up the frothers.

TICK TOCK: SDNY TELLS PROJECT VERITAS, AGAIN, TO WAIT UNTIL

JAMES O'KEEFE IS INDICTED TO COMPLAIN

During the six weeks that Judge Analisa Torres has been considering Project Veritas' demand to claw back materials obtained in SDNY's investigation of Ashley Biden's allegedly stolen diary, Special Master Barbara Jones has gotten almost through the process of handing those materials over to SDNY.

JOHN DURHAM MAY LOSE HIS BATTLE BUT GAIN NEW AMMUNITION TO FIGHT HIS WAR

Yesterday, Judge Christopher Cooper ruled that he will review 38 Fusion emails to test the claims of privilege the Democrats and Rodney Joffe made over them. But because of procedural issues, it's possible Durham will win his privilege battle but lose his ability to use those emails at the Michael Sussmann trial.

OLD FRIENDS: SCOOTER LIBBY AND CIPA

In his first decision about the scope of evidence that will come in at Michael Sussmann's trial, Judge Christopher Cooper applied the principles Judge Reggie Walton adopted in the Scooter Libby trial.
