

ABOUT THE TWO INVESTIGATIONS INTO DONALD TRUMP

Andrew McCabe's interview lays out more about how Trump came to be a focus of Mueller's investigation.

FOUR SENTENCES: WHAT THE LEGAL SYSTEM HAS SAID ABOUT THE SUSPECT LOYALTY OF TRUMP'S AIDES

In the wake of Andrew McCabe's book publication, Trump wants to treat his investigation as a case of contested claims of betrayal. But the judges who have reviewed the record have used striking language to indicate that Trump's aides, not Mueller's team, betrayed their country.

ROGER STONE AND THE DOZENS OF SEARCH WARRANTS ON ACCOUNTS USED TO FACILITATE THE TRANSFER AND PROMOTION OF STOLEN DEMOCRATIC EMAILS

The filing explaining why Roger Stone got assigned the same judge as the GRU defendants describes how his communications got picked up in “several” accounts used to transfer or promote the stolen DNC emails. He will get a sealed description of which ones those are.

THE UNSEEN ASPECTS OF PAUL MANAFORT’S LIES AND TRUTH- TELLING ARE AS TELLING AS THE ONES WE’VE SEEN

For all the debate about whether Mueller is almost done or not, the things we didn’t learn about during this breach discussion are just as interesting as the things we did learn about.

AMY BERMAN JACKSON RULES THAT MANAFORT

LIED ABOUT POSSIBLE CRIMINAL ACTIVITY RELATED TO DONALD TRUMP'S CAMPAIGN

Amy Berman Jackson just ruled that Paul Manafort lied when he denied committing crimes in conjunction with Trump's campaign.

ON SSCI'S INVESTIGATION: MANAFORT "CONSPIRED" WHETHER OR NOT TRUMP ALSO "COLLUDED"

For some reason, Republicans are not squawking about the less damning of the several explanations for why Paul Manafort shared campaign data with Konstantin Kilimnik.

A PRIMER ON HOW TO READ: SO THE NYT CAN STOP TELLING PAUL MANAFORT'S LIES

In which I try to teach the NYT how to read, so they can stop telling the public Paul Manafort's lies.

QUID PRO QUO REDUX, PART ONE: THE TRUMP TOWER DANGLE

The 2016 Quid Pro Quo started with a dangle that Trump couldn't refuse: the tallest tower in Europe bearing his name, worth $300 million.

WHAT WE KNOW ABOUT THE "OTHER" INVESTIGATION ABOUT WHICH PAUL MANAFORT LIED

Whatever Paul Manafort lied about with prosecutors from another district, it pertained to "saving the candidate."

PAUL MANAFORT SOLD OUT DONALD TRUMP — AND HIS ANONYMOUS

LEAKERS ARE LYING ABOUT IT PUBLICLY

Paul Manafort walked Konstantin Kilimnik through recent, highly detailed polling data in NYC on August 2, 2016. And he's willing to bet that lying about that fact is his best chance for a pardon.