

MITCH MCCONNELL, HANS VON SPAKOVSKY, MITT'S RE-EMERGENCE, AND MCCAIN'S FEC MONEY WOES

Best as I can tell, Mitch McConnell has one of two choices. Do McCain a favor by withdrawing his insistence that Hans von Spakovsky be considered in a block with the three other FEC nominees—which would result in a quorum that could rule on McCain's bid to decline FEC matching funds. Or, he could remain intransigent, and make it much more likely that someone he doesn't hate as much as he hates McCain—like Mitt Romney—gets the GOP nomination to be President.
