

MARK MEADOWS AND THE POTEMKIN SHUT- DOWNS: WELCOME TO THE APRIL'S FOOL WHITE HOUSE

Given that Mark Meadows, who became Trump's Chief of Staff on April Fools Day, had a role in persuading states that already plan on reopening to shut-down briefly, I suspect that was an attempt to reclaim some leverage for Trump over how the various states do reopen.